An ensemble cop drama with supernatural elements, set in the fictional town of Excelsior where magic and supernatural elements rule over science. In a city called Excelsior where the reigning technology is magic--sophisticated but elemental--the 17th police precinct goes about its daily business, solving murders and crimes and bringing criminals to justice before judges, whose decisions can be wildly subjective. However, as intuitive savant Detective Chief Inspector Wilder Banks begins to realize, there's a deeper threat than crime that's about to swallow up the city: a group of terrorists called The Stoics, who aim to destroy magic and replace it with their own devastating system: science.

21 Jump Street is the headquarters for a squad of police officers who specialize in investigations relating to young people. Each of the Jump St. personnel was selected for their ability to pass for high school or college students, allowing them to operate undercover in areas where it is difficult for regular police officers to blend in unnoticed. The plot concerns a new drug that has run rampant at a high school, and Jenko (Tatum) and Schmidt (Hill) are tasked with cutting it off at the source. (Johnny Depp may make a cameo./ Release date March 16, 2012.)

Centers on two sisters who come of age and face off against one another amidst the beginning of a zombie uprising. In centers on the older one, who is a public defender. Jenna Lestrate is a hard-working public defender who is very much in love with her handsome boyfriend, Matt. But Jenna has a shocking secret that she had been hiding for years. She is a zombie -- one of thousands who pass as humans and live among everyday people in everyday jobs. It's a strain for Jenna to pass as "normal" -- and it's even more of a strain because the "pre-dead" (i.e., alive) Matt has no idea of her true nature. Meanwhile, the ranks of the Living Dead are being transformed by a mass Awakening, in which the hidden zombies are coming out of hiding to express themselves as who they are -- not to mention hunt for fresh meat. The last Awakening, some 40-plus years ago, proved disastrous for the Living Dead, who were hunted down by deadly Hunters who destroyed them like rats.

In a small Pennsylvania town depressed by coal mine closings, a young man of 19 finds himself thrust into the role of parent. Harley (Garfield) has become the guardian of his three younger sisters as the result of their mother going to jail for the shooting death of their father. Each sibling finds his or her own way of coping with this family tragedy. During his regular visits with a psychotherapist Harley finds some comfort while at the same time feeling disdain for this woman. He is able to satisfy his youthful urges by beginning a series of sexual encounters with an older woman whose daughter is a playmate of his youngest sister. Garner will play one of the family's neighbors who becomes romantically involved with the Garfield, while Harden will play his court-appointed therapist. Based on the Tawni O'Dell novel.

It is an April day in the year 2000 and an era is about to end. The booming times of market optimism -- when the culture boiled with money and corporations seemed more vital and influential than governments -- are poised to crash. Eric Packer (Pattinson), a billionaire asset manager at age twenty-eight, emerges from his penthouse triplex and settles into his lavishly customized white stretch limousine. Today he is a man with two missions: to pursue a cataclysmic bet against the yen and to get a haircut across town. Stalled in traffic by a presidential motorcade, a music idol's funeral, and a violent political demonstration, Eric receives a string of visitors -- experts on security, technology, currency, finance, and a few sexual partners -- as the limo sputters toward an increasingly uncertain future. Giamatti plays the dual role of Benno Levin/Richard Steers. Based on the novel by Don DeLillo. (Offer out to Aaron Yoo for the role of Michael Chin.)

A period Western set in a Missouri town during the post-Civil War Reconstruction era and centers on Jason, a Civil War soldier who crosses the country and settles into a complicated town where he is welcomed as its savior -- whether he likes it or not. In post-Civil War 1866, a small Missouri border town is still subject to the horrors of continuing conflict, persistently terrorized by a mysterious Southern colonel known as the Grey Ghost. The Grey Ghost exacts a heavy tribute from the townspeople, and his vicious minions butcher anyone who dares to flout his brutal will.

The story continues with the assassin Deadshot (Floyd Lawton) being broken out of prison by Russian Agents and sent to northern Europe where he is then smuggled into America as he has been hired by a clandestine organization from the Gotham underground; "The Society". Batman has become more of a "myth" in Gotham as the criminal underworld has dissipated. Gotham is safer with arrests 30% down so The Dark Knight keeps a very low profile. Batman also has a new aerial vehicle, "The Wraith". A modified military prototype aircraft/drone with a 40 foot wing span. The Batmobile is now equipped with an E.M.P device. Wayne Manor is rebuilt but Wayne Enterprises is struggling with a lawsuit filed by a rival corporation, Daggett industries and Wayne Enterprises are almost brought to the ground, so much so that Lucius Fox feels he must turn against the irresponsible Bruce Wayne to save the company. A new Batcave has been constructed beneath the re-constructed Manor. (July 20, 2012 Release date.)

In the story, Roland Deschain is the last living member of a knightly order known as gunslingers and the last of the line of "Arthur Eld", his world's analogue of King Arthur. The world he lives in is quite different from our own, yet it bears striking similarities to it. Politically organized along the lines of a feudal society, it shares technological and social characteristics with the American Old West but is also magical. While the magical aspects are largely gone from Mid-World, some vestiges of them remain, along with the relics of a highly advanced, but long vanished, society. Roland's quest is to find the Dark Tower, a fabled building said to be the nexus of all universes. Roland's world is said to have "moved on", and indeed it appears to be coming apart at the seams—mighty nations have been torn apart by war, entire cities and regions vanish without a trace and time does not flow in an orderly fashion. Even the Sun sometimes rises in the north and sets in the east. (Javier Bardem offered the role of Roland Deschain. Jennifer Carpenter, Ghita Tazi, and Naomie Harris mentioned for the role of Sussanah Dean. / Release date May 17, 2013.)

Pauline, has a sister, Grace, who suffers from cystic fibrosis and occupies most of her parents' attention. Pauline is fascinated by surgery. This not only gives her nightmares, but also disturbs her mom and dad. However, compelled by a life with a suffering sister, she can't let go of this preoccupation, despite her fear. As her home life deteriorates, Pauline's grades drop and her mother becomes emotionally distant. She has no one to go to and her mental state veers far away from sanity until her nightmares no longer frighten her and surgery becomes more than an intense fascination, but perhaps a future and a way of winning her parents' attention and love. Pauline no longer looks at her sister as a human, but as an opportunity to steal back the devotion of her parents. Aware that Grace will one day need a lung transplant because of her condition, Pauline is convinced she can perform the operation herself. The story explores a strained relationship between a mother and daughter. It is a story of neglect, obsession, jealousy and loneliness told through a blurring of suburbia and terror.

It was once the job of Madame Agathe-Sidonie Laborde (Seydoux) to read books aloud to Marie-Antoinette (Kruger). Now exiled in Vienna, she looks back twenty-one years to the legendary opulence of Versailles and meticulously reconstructs July 14, 15, and 16 of 1789. When Agathe-Sidonie is summoned to the Queen's side on the morning of the 14th, Versailles is a miniature universe, sparkling with every outward appearance of happiness and power, peopled with nobles of minutely calibrated rank, and run according to a hundred-year-old ritual called the Perfect Day. But with the shocking news that someone has woken the King in the night, order begins to disintegrate and word of the fall of the Bastille seeps into court. Soon Versailles's beauty is nothing more than a shell encasing rising panic and chaos. Agathe-Sidonie watches as the Queen's attempts to flee are aborted; her most intimate friend betrays her; and the King, appearing to sleepwalk through this crisis, never alters his routine of visiting the Apollo Salon several times a day to consult a giant crystal thermometer. Based on the novel "Les adieux à la reine" by Chantal Thomas.

Almost a year after rejecting Amory "Amo" Percy's deeply personal screenplay, assistant film executive Camilla Reilly finds herself without a job, a boyfriend, or a place to live. By chance, she meets up again with Amo at a downtown party and spends a life-changing 24 hours in his company. From underworld haunts to the upscale reaches of uptown Manhattan, theirs is an odyssey through a restless city in retrograde -- an ageless, timeless, polymorphous landfill of drugs, poseurs, and perceptions, where everyone's got their own hustle. Slowly but surely falling in love, Amo's past and Camilla's destiny intersect in a fateful romance cut short by sudden, lyrically foretold tragedy.

The story is presented as a recollection of Nick Carraway, a young man from a patrician Midwestern family who lived in New York after graduating from Yale in the early 1920s. Nick declares that, following his father's advice, he avoids judging people: a habit that has caused trouble, exemplified by events concerning a man named Gatsby.

A dark but fantastical cop drama about a world in which characters inspired by Grimm's Fairy Tales exist. Nick Burckhardt, a young police officer, is perturbed when he starts seeing fleeting visions of ordinary people turning into monsters. Nick fears he's going nuts, until he learns that he is inexorably transforming into a Grimm, as did all his ancestors before him. As a Grimm, he sees things that other people can't, including evil creatures straight out of the darkest fairy tale. And as a Grimm, Nick must battle the forces of evil -- even at grave and ever-present risk to his own life.

The drama is set in the town of Hallelujah, Tenn., which is being torn apart by the forces of good and evil. Its fortunes change when a stranger comes to town, bringing justice, peace and possibly restoring faith. There is a music twist: the episodes of Hallelujah will be punctuated by songs sung by the gospel choir, which serves as a sort of Greek chorus.

Tracks a 13-year-old Nebraska girl's hard-going life on the road. Young Luli knows losers—her "aging Brigitte Bardot" mother, Tammy, and her father, Nick, go at each other every night at the Alibi, the watering hole in hometown Palmyra, Neb. Tammy runs away one morning, and Nick soon follows, leaving Luli alone at home with the Smith and Wesson .45 her Uncle Nipper gave her. Pistol in tow, she hitches rides heading west to Vegas. A crooked man (literally; he "looks like an italic," says smart-alecky Luli) named Eddie picks her up briefly before throwing her out of the car. Next comes cocaine-snorting grifter Glenda, who enlists Luli as an accessory to a robbery that goes awry. Glenda takes Luli under her wing. The two cross paths again with Eddie, who rapes Luli and ties her up in a secluded motel. Glenda comes to her rescue, but the confrontation with Eddie ends badly. (Kirsten Dunst mentioned for the role of Glenda.)

About three families whose lives have become intertwined through youth sports. The Caucasian, oh-so-proper Wellers move from San Jose, CA to Austin, TX, but find that their adjustment won't be quite that easy, considering that their Latino neighbors, the Pachecos, have a radically different approach to child-rearing than they do. The Wellers' other new neighborhood acquaintances, the African American Burlesons, take sports very seriously, and don't appreciate it when the Wellers' son prove a drag on the youth baseball team. But these bickering couples eventually learn that, under the surface, they have more in common than they realized.

The story of Nina Locke (Otto) and her three children, Tyler, Kinsey, and Bode, who survive an unspeakable horror and attempt to rebuild their lives at Keyhouse, their family home in Lovecraft, Massachusetts. It is a mysterious New England mansion, with fantastic and transformative keys hidden inside its walls that are also being sought by a hate-filled and relentless creature with ties to the Locke family's past who will stop at nothing to accomplish his sinister goals. Stahl will play Rendell's younger brother Duncan Locke, an art teacher, who lives nearby and frequently visits Nina and the kids and who strangely has few memories of his time growing up in Keyhouse.

Bob Marley was one of the greatest musicians of our time. While much has been written about him, here is a unique, intimate, and honest portrayal by his wife Rita, who talks about their struggles both before and during his rise to fame as well as their dreams, fears, and ultimately, her husbands losing battle with cancer while at the height of his career. This stirringly honest, no-holds-barred account of life with Bob Marley reveals a different, deeper side of the beloved musician that will be sure to strike a chord with his legions of faithful fans.

Premise is a modern-day take on fairy tales, with a female protagonist who comes from a unique background. Once upon a time (1983, actually), there was a mighty battle between the forces of Good and Evil -- and Good got its ass kicked. Ever since then, all the characters of Fairy Tale Land have been trapped in exile in the small town of Storybrooke, Maine, and only one person (10 year old Henry) knows the truth; everyone else in Storybrooke is under the spell of the Evil Queen and cannot remember their fabled past or the glory that once was theirs. When Henry escapes and enlists the aid of 28 year old Anna Swan, his biological mother, the balance of power in Storybrooke starts to shift back in the direction of Good -- because Anna is the daughter of Snow White and Prince Charming, and she and Henry have a common destiny to work out: the toppling of the Evil Queen's reign.

Isabelle is the young ingénue assistant, while Christine is the older woman, a senior executive in a multinational company doing deals around the world. At first they are friendly. Christine, the able executive, is happy to pass the grunt work along to the up-and-coming Isabelle as she learns the ropes. But when Christine starts to take credit for Isabelle's ideas, and a fellow worker bee begins to fuel Isabelle's growing doubts about Christine's duplicitous "all-for-one" attitude, the ground is prepared for all out war. And all out war certainly ensues. A remake of 2010 psychodrama "Love Crime" directed by Alain Corneau. Described as "Dangerous Liaisons" crossed with "Working Girl".

Set in a rundown house somewhere in America, Refuge tells the darkly funny and touching story of a young woman, Amy (Ritter), forced to care for her younger brother and sister after her parents have abandoned the family and fled to Florida for a vacation from which they will never return. The siblings are in great need of care: Nat, a brain tumor survivor, is stuttering and barely able to move; and Becca is an Ecstasy-popping needy child. In a desperate attempt at connection, Amy brings home a drifter, Sam, for a one-night stand. But Sam is so lonely and lost that once he encounters this unusual family's bonds of loyalty, he sees them as his only refuge.

Matt Weston (Reynolds) is an eager 28 year old worker for the CIA living in Rio De Janeiro. Matt is relegated to the job of a "housekeeper" at a safe house. What this entails is hanging out at a special CIA approved "apartment" all day, awaiting any CIA agents who need a place to crash. On the other side of town is Tobin Frost (Washington), a 55 year old ex-CIA field officer. But Frost has gone off the grid for over a decade, and is believed to be selling CIA intel to anyone with a Swiss Bank Account or some juicy intel of their own. He's apparently hit the mother-load, as the latest information he's acquired has him hunted by a lethal assassin named Emile Vargas. Frost may have been able to handle this guy a quarter of a century ago, but even the best have to admit when they need help. Problem is, the only nearby help is the very institution he's betrayed, the American Embassy. So Frost does the unthinkable. He walks right into the Eagle's Den. The Americans send Frost over to Matt's safe house until the CIA can get down here and extract him. But let's just say Frost won't have to worry about purchasing the weekly discount. The Safe House is immediately attacked by mercenaries we believe are led by Vargas. Frost and Matt somehow escape, and quickly find themselves on the run. Matt's given orders to bring Frost to a second safe house four hours away, but Frost seems to have other plans, namely to get the hell away from Matt and out of Rio. (Offers out to Nora Amezeder for Ana Ramos, Tim McGraw for David Barlow, and Jeff Bridges for the role of Deputy Vice Director Harland Whitford. / Release date February 10, 2012.)

A PG origin and re-imagining tale of "Snow White" from the Brothers Grimm fairy tale. Tonally in the vein of "Alice In Wonderland". Snow White, an 18-year-old princess who is only friends with animals, is getting more beautiful by the day as her step-mother, the Evil Queen Ravenna (Theron) gets more and more jealous. When Ravenna tries to kill Snow White, she escapes with the help of a huntsman named Eric (Mortensen) who is trying to get revenge on the Queen. Eric is very gruff but teaches Snow White how to fend for herself against the evil creatures of the forest. When she eats a poisonous apple, her childhood sweetheart Prince Charmant must kiss her in order to unfreeze her lips and give her the potion to heal her. She thinks she's in love with Eric, but he assures her Prince Charmant is her one true love. (Offer out to Kristen Stewart for the role of Snow White. / Release date December 21, 2012.)

Mark Bennett (Wahlberg) is a Boston kid who had a hell of an interesting childhood. After getting a stuffed bear for Christmas, Mark turns to the bear and asks him to promise that he'll never ever leave him and that they'll be best friends forever. His bear (Ted) turns to him and says, "Okay." Cut to 30 years later and both Mark and Ted (MacFarlane) are grown up. Mark's got a lame job as an assistant assistant manager at a car rental place. Ted, on the other hand, just cruises around town with his Southie accent, shooting the shit with the locals like it's completely normal. When Mark gets off of work, it's back to the apartment to hang out with, smoke pot with, and play Xbox with Ted. Here they are, in their 30s, and just like that magical promise, are still the best of friends! But Mark's girlfriend, Lori (Kunis), is starting to get dubious of this relationship and thinks it's time for Mark to grow up. (February 23 - July 15)

A modern day comedy following the misadventures of Moe, Larry, and Curly. The screenplay breaks the feature into four 20-minute shorts, in an approximation of the vaudeville and slapstick pioneers' most common format in the 1920s and '30s. The first episode establishes the bruising, boisterous brothers as 7-year-old castoffs who terrorize the nun-run orphanage that takes them in. Eventually forced to leave, Moe (the hostile leader), Larry (the jokey sidekick) and Curly (the childlike dimwit) try to find a place for themselves in a modern world. After various misadventures, the trio splits up and the third act starts with them alone — and finding that all the slapping, eye-gouging, and head-bonking isn't a useful way of dealing with the outside world. (Mentioned for the cast; Johnny Knoxville & Benicio Del Toro for Moe, Andy Samberg for Larry, Shane Jacobson for Curly, and Richard Jenkins for the role of a nun.)

The hourlong drama centers on a father who discovers his autistic, mute son can actually predict events before they happen. We call it chance, coincidence, timing, synergy, quirk of fate; but perhaps those events are all part of an interconnected, dazzlingly precise universe ruled by mathematical laws, unseen by most of us.

"THE TRIALS & TRIBULATIONS OF A TRAILER TRASH HOUSEWIFE" Feature Film

KESTREL FILMS

STATUS: March 17 LOCATION: Atlanta

Willi is the trailer trash housewife of the title, not necessarily of her own volition. Her abusive husband won't let her get a job, one of her children is dead, and the other is verboten by her husband because he's gay. Her best and only friend, a large black woman who lives next door, worries about her constantly, always concerned that Willi's husband will end up killing her. A new woman comes to live in the trailer park and ends up having an affair with Willi's husband. When she finds out, Willi decides to get a job at the local Wal-Mart (a first step on the way to liberating herself from him). Her husband will have none of it, and quoting the bible about how a wife is supposed to obey her husband, threatens all three women with a gun, and then beats Willi to within an inch of her life. She recovers enough to finally shoot him, releasing her from the torment that she'd been living in for years. A blues singer weaves songs into the action, commenting upon Willi's predicament and urging her toward decisive action.

Centers on an ultra-competitive surgeon whose life is changed forever when his ex-wife dies and begins teaching him what life is all about from the here-after. Michael is a spectacularly gifted Los Angeles neurosurgeon, one of the best in the world. But there's something missing from his life: a life outside the operating room. When Anna, the Girl Who Got Away, returns to his life unexpectedly, he thinks perhaps some missing pieces of the puzzle called Life will finally click into place. But he soon discovers that Anna has passed away, and the woman he just met up with is her spirit, trapped between this world and the next, with some unfinished business that only Michael can carry out.

Centers on the story of three brothers - Forrest (Hardy), Howard and Jack (LaBeouf) in order of age and toughness - running a bootlegging gang during 1930's Prohibition whose moonshine dynasty in Franklin County, Virginia is threatened by the authorities wanting a cut. The tale is told through the eyes of the youngest brother Jack, who doesn't really have the stomach for violence or taste for madness and drink that his wild older brothers do. In many ways, it's the tale of the younger Bondurant building character and becoming a man, but not necessarily by following in his brother's footsteps. Forrest is described as a giant, Howard a drunk and Jack as the runt of the trio. Based on Matt Bondurant's novel The Wettest County In The World. (Offer out to Joaquin Phoenix for the role of Special Deputy Charley Rakes. / February 28 - April 21)

Five years have passed since the legendary Perseus defeated the evil Gorgon Medusa, killed the Kraken and assumed the crown of Argos. Things seemed idyllic throughout the kingdom and news of an heir put the citizens in a celebratory mood. Yet lurking in the shadows is the one being in Argos simmering with hate and discontent. Calibus, once though dead, was let out of the Underworld by Hades and looks to take his revenge on the Pretender and his family. Perseus stole his bride, stole his position, stole Zeus favor, stole his life and now Calibus looks to take it all back. And with the news that a baby boy was born to Perseus and Andromeda, he is chilling that dish of revenge... (Release date March 23, 2012. / Offers out to Edgar Ramirez for Ares and Toby Kebbell for Agenor, Bill Nighy for Hephaestus.)
