Set in a college in Bristol Falls, WA, in 1993 we are in the Seattle era of grunge and sub-pop at it's best! A cohort of physical anthropology students and their wonderful teacher see their lives horrifically up-ended as, by turns the students are brutally murdered by a gruesomely masked attacker. As they learn about the bones in the human body in their class, they start to find real bones, or pieces of bones show up in their homes, cars, classroom. When they gather in their social groups to speculate about who the murderer could be, that person is invariably killed off. It is left to Sheriff Bracco, Laurie the County Coroner and their teacher, Kelly, to find out who the real bone crunching murderer is. (October 23 - November 20)

A workplace comedy about a group of teachers brought together in one of the worst public schools in the country, simply because they love teaching. The teachers will rely on each other to make it through the day, and find a way to counteract the school district's bullshit attitude toward educating children. The eternally optimistic Janine is in her second year teaching at an underfunded, underserved elementary school in her hometown of Philadelphia, where she comes up against jaded but devoted teachers, children in challenging situations and a principal who's basically out to lunch. Alert is a character-driven police procedural about the LAMPU — the Los Angeles Police Department's missing person's unit. When police officer Nikki Parker's son goes missing, she joins the LAPD's Missing Person's Unit to help other people find their loved ones, even as she searches for her own. Six years later, her world is turned upside-down when her ex-husband, Devon Zoellner, shows up with a proof-of-life photo of their missing boy. Or is it? Alert is a procedural drama with a heart-pounding, life-or-death search for a missing person in each episode, that runs alongside Nikki and Devon's quest to find out the truth about the person claiming to be their long-lost son. It's a case-of-the-week show with a case-of-a-lifetime story running through it — a story that alternately brings our two main characters gut-wrenching heartache and heart-pounding joy. (Writers room scheduled to reopen early-October.)

The comedy series follows a group of local Animal Control workers whose lives are complicated by the fact that animals are simple, but humans are not. McHale will play Frank Shaw, an opinionated, eccentric Animal Control officer who may not have gone to college but is still the most well-read person in the room. A former cop, Frank tried to expose corruption in his department, but his efforts got him fired, which may explain why he's so cynical and curmudgeonly. He has an almost superhuman ability to understand animals. Humans...not so much.

When astronaut Sam Walker (Mara) returns from her first space mission, she's discovered wounded in a punctured capsule in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean, requiring her to be quarantined. Her adopted father General William Harris (Fishburne), arranges for her to be placed under NASA surveillance in a high security house, isolated in the woods. Although Sam appears to be reacclimatizing to life on earth, she suddenly begins to see and hear things that don't appear to be from our world. Suspicious that something may have followed her back to Earth, Sam discovers that the agencies that were meant to protect her are endangering her life. Not even those close to her can be trusted.

Greta lives with her friend Sabine in an ancient Dutch farmhouse in Hudson, New York. The house, built in 1737, is unrenovated, uninsulated, and full of bees. Greta spends her days transcribing therapy sessions for a sex coach who calls himself Om. She becomes infatuated with his newest client, a repressed married woman she affectionately refers to as Big Swiss, since she's tall, stoic, and originally from Switzerland. Greta is fascinated by Big Swiss's refreshing attitude toward trauma. They both have dark histories, but Big Swiss chooses to remain unattached to her suffering while Greta continues to be tortured by her past. One day, Greta recognizes Big Swiss's voice at the dog park. In a panic, she introduces herself with a fake name and they quickly become enmeshed. Although Big Swiss is unaware of Greta's true identity, Greta has never been more herself with anyone. Her attraction to Big Swiss overrides her guilt, and she'll do anything to sustain the relationship.

Code of Silence introduces us to Deaf catering worker, Alison Woods. She's struggling to make ends meet, juggling two jobs, in a police canteen and a local bar, while also doing her best to support her Deaf mum, Julie. When DC Ashleigh Francis calls on Alison to lip read the conversations of some dangerous criminals, she is plunged into a new and exhilarating world. Alison's interpretation of the gang's clandestine meetings quickly become key to unlocking the police investigation. But Alison's feelings about the case become complicated when she finds herself drawn to Liam, one of the main suspects. Alison knows she's putting herself at risk by agreeing to work with the police, and when things threaten to spill over into her personal life, she knows she should step away. But Alison can't let go.

The lonely isolation of Breakwater, Louisiana Bayou makes the script feel all that more intimate and personal. Opening in a large, blue, late night swimming pool, the writers quickly establish the tone for the piece. The main protagonist offers sexual tension and manipulates the lives of those around her. The writers give this story a sardonic and tragic element with a main character being a tattoo of Comedy and Tragedy as a metaphor to the torment of a paralyzed man, Walter, held captive in a mangled war torn body while bound to his wheelchair. Walter's mute state and the immobility of his hands while reliving his days of happiness and glory in his mind's eye are clearly visualized by extreme close-ups of his face and his eyes while he sits and watches 8mm film over and over again. His young and beautiful bride, Ruby, from days long past has degenerated into an aging and perverse sadist who tortures him with malicious indifference by performing acts of carnal lust with complete strangers while he, Walter, is forced to watch. By the time we're introduced to Ruby, her evil is developed and her inevitable quest for absolution and annihilation is revealed. The fact that she gets both, serves the audience well. The writers lead you in and out of Ruby's psychosis, where the nocturnal bayou coast of Breakwater, Louisiana offers up a diabolical noir setting.

It begins in a Stockholm city park where the abused body of a young boy is discovered. Detective Superintendent Jeanette Kihlberg heads the investigation, battling an apathetic prosecutor and a bureaucratic police force unwilling to devote resources to solving the murder of an immigrant child. But with the discovery of the mutilated corpses of two more children, it becomes clear that a serial killer is at large. Superintendent Kihlberg turns to therapist Sofia Zetterlund for her expertise in the psychopathology of those who kill, and the lives of the two women become quickly intertwined — professionally and personally. As they draw closer to each other and to the truth about the killings, what surfaces is the undeniable fact that these murders are only the most obvious evidence of an insidious evil woven deep into Swedish society.

Within the Directorate General for External Security (DGSE), a department called the Legends Office (LBDL) trains and directs remotely the so-called clandestine agents, immersed in foreign countries, whose mission is to identify people likely to be recruited as sources of information. Operating in the shadows, "under legend", that is to say under a fabricated identity from scratch, they live for many years in permanent concealment. Guillaume Debailly, alias Paul Lefebvre, alias Malotru, returns from a six-year clandestine mission in Syria, but in violation of security rules, he does not seem to have abandoned his legend and the identity under which he lived in Damascus. His love affair with the Syrian Nadia El Mansour will seriously complicate things and in particular lead him to play a double game between the DGSE and the CIA.

Carl Mørck used to be one of Denmark's best homicide detectives. Then a hail of bullets destroyed the lives of two fellow cops, and Carl—who didn't draw his weapon—blames himself. So a promotion is the last thing he expects. But Department Q is a department of one, and Carl's got only a stack of cold cases for company. His colleagues snicker, but Carl may have the last laugh, because one file keeps nagging at him: a liberal politician vanished five years earlier and is presumed dead. But she isn't dead...yet.

In Die Hart 2: Die Harter, Kevin now wants to cement his legacy as the greatest action star of all time, after achieving his dream of becoming a bona fide action hero in Die Hart. He's developed a concept for a revolutionary movie where the action is so unscripted and unexpected that even Kevin won't know what's coming next. But Kevin's myopic dream comes with a blind spot, and he soon finds himself the victim of an evil revenge plot, orchestrated by someone from his past. Kevin must enlist the help of his favorite co-star, Jordan King (Nathalie Emmanuel), his over-eager assistant, Andre (Ben Schwartz), Andre's mom, Cynthia (Paula Pell), and legendary Hollywood stuntman Mr. 206 (John Cena) if he wants to survive.

A fast-paced drama about the inner workings of the New York office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. This elite unit brings to bear all their talents, intellect and technical expertise on major cases in order to keep New York and the country safe. Born into a multigenerational law enforcement family, Special Agent Maggie Bell commits deeply to the people she works with as well as those she protects. Her partner is Special Agent Omar Adom "OA" Zidan, a West Point graduate via Bushwick who spent two years undercover for the DEA before being cherry-picked by the FBI. Overseeing them is Special Agent in Charge, Isobel Castille, who operates under intense pressure and has undeniable command authority. The team also includes Assistant Special Agent in Charge Jubal Valentine, the nerve center of the office whose ability to easily relate to and engage with both superiors and subordinates makes him a master motivator. Kristen Chazal is the team's most valued resource, a brilliant analyst recruited straight out of university who can piece together the big picture faster than anyone. These first-class agents tenaciously investigate cases of tremendous magnitude, including terrorism, organized crime and counterintelligence. (Writers room scheduled to reopen early-October.)

The third iteration of the successful FBI brand that follows the elite operatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation's International Fly Team. Headquartered in Budapest, they travel the world with the mission of tracking and neutralizing threats against American citizens wherever they may be. Not allowed to carry guns, the Fly Team relies on intelligence, quick thinking and pure brawn as they put their lives on the line to protect the U.S. and its people. The Fly Team's Special Agent Scott Forrester, their accomplished and dedicated leader, puts his missions ahead of his personal life and is rarely seen without the team's "secret weapon" - their trusty Schutzhund dog, Tank. Second in command is Special Agent Jamie Kellett, not afraid to tussle - in an alley or courtroom - and her extensive network of informants is a powerful resource. Special Agent Andre Raines shines in the field and makes good use of his accounting background in tracking criminal enterprises' moving money; and the group's newest member is Special Agent Cameron Vo, a competitive West Point grad who excels at interrogation and strategy. A key part of the mix is the unflappable Europol Agent Katrin Jaeger, a multilingual liaison between the FBI Fly Team and each host country they inhabit. In Cal Fire, seeking redemption and a shortened prison sentence, young convict Bode Donovan joins a firefighting program that returns him to his small Northern California hometown, where he and other inmates work alongside elite firefighters to extinguish massive blazes across the region. Prison inmate Bode joins the Cal Fire unit to get his sentence reduced after his latest parole bid is rejected. But when Bode is sent to a camp nearby his old home town, he's panicky and desperate to be reassigned. During the middle of a raging fire that threatens the town, Bode risks his own life to save Jake, a firefighter trapped in the inferno -- at which point Bode's mysterious connection to Jake and the town comes to glaring light.

Set at America's only college exclusively for young adult superheroes (and run by Vought International), the spinoff is described as an irreverent, R-rated series that explores the lives of hormonal, competitive Supes as they put their physical, sexual, and moral boundaries to the test, competing for the best contracts in the best cities. Part college show, part Hunger Games — with all the heart, satire and raunch of The Boys. Broadway plays Emma her mother is a renowned Supe and although Emma has tried not to let this legacy define her life it clearly has. Emma is hiding a scandalous secret about who she really is and worries if she is discovered that people will be repulsed by her. Sinclair will play Marie Moreau, as the Caribbean's first and only superhero. Not to be deterred Marie's flippant and derisive sense of humor cuts straight through her rivals. Marie is surrounded by malevolent forces and she will find herself compromising her values in order to pursue the ever-elusive American dream. (w/t "VARSITY")

The coming-of-age comedy revolves around Marcus and Roddy, two best friends who work at a dead-end retail job and dream about jump-starting their dream of living on their own while seeking fame and fortune. The pair come up with an ingenious plan to kidnap the pet iguana of football star Achilles Cooper for ransom, while also forcing the famous player to headline the birthday party of Marcus's father. Howard plays Calvin Turner, a hard-working father who wants to see his son, Marcus, take advantage of the opportunities life affords him. Smoove will portray Marcus's arch-nemesis Dexter, an ambitious hustler who manages the retail box store where he works. And De Mornay is set for the role of Aunt Theodora, an eccentric cabaret/performance artist who tries her best to look out for Roddy, but knows a good opportunity when she sees it.

Heartstopper tells the story of Nick Nelson (Connor) and Charlie Spring (Locke), two British teens at an all-boys grammar school. Charlie, a highly-strung, openly gay over-thinker, and Nick, a cheerful, soft-hearted rugby player, who one day are made to sit together. They quickly become friends, and soon Charlie is falling hard for Nick, even though he doesn't think he has a chance. But love works in surprising ways, and Nick is more interested in Charlie than either of them realized. Heartstopper is about love, friendship, loyalty and mental illness. It encompasses all the small stories of Nick and Charlie's lives that together make up something larger.

Simon arrives in Lund full of anticipation and ready for his life to really begin; but is quickly disappointed by law school. During a violent protest march he meets the anarchistic young woman Max and falls in love. She dazzles him with a world of excess, lies and huge risks - and when he realizes the damage that's done, it's already too late to escape. "An Honest Life" is a thriller about betrayal, class and the appeal of living outside the law.

The film will portray the story behind the birth of the 'Western Desert Art Movement' told for the first time, through a First Nations lens. In the Western Desert outpost of Papunya, tribal groups fought to preserve their law, culture and identity by painting their Tjukurrpa, or things which were most precious to them. The sacred stories were once painted on their bodies and in the sand, but later migrated to boards and canvas. Propelled by the entrepreneurial efforts of traditional elder Kaapa Tjampitjinpa, these works have taken the global art world by storm.

Set in a dystopian America in the near future, the high-concept film follows five 16-year-old orphans who wake up to find themselves in a strange building with no walls, no ceiling, and no floor: nothing but endless flights of stairs leading in every direction, seemingly infinite. To find an exit, the five teenagers must learn to deal with the others' disparate personalities, the lack of privacy and comfort, their clear helplessness, and a machine that only feeds them under increasingly ominous situations.

Sophie O'Neill left behind an envy-inspiring career and the stressful, competitive life of big-city Chicago to settle down with her husband and young son in a small Texas town. It seems like the perfect life with a beautiful home in an idyllic rural community. But Sophie soon realizes that life is now too quiet, and she's feeling bored and restless. Then she meets Margot Banks, an alluring socialite who is part of an elite clique secretly known as the Hunting Wives. Sophie finds herself completely drawn to Margot and swept into her mysterious world of late-night target practice and dangerous partying. As Sophie's curiosity gives way to full-blown obsession, she slips farther away from the safety of her family and deeper into this nest of vipers. When the body of a teenage girl is discovered in the woods where the Hunting Wives meet, Sophie finds herself in the middle of a murder investigation and her life spiraling out of control.

The story of Nick, a ghostwriter who is a disappointment to himself and his soon-to-be-ex-wife, and Bee, a commitment-phobe content on repurposing wedding dresses rather than finding a reason to wear one herself. The two are meant to be together, but fate has other plans. They have an instant connection after a misdirected email lands in Bee's inbox, and over time they develop real feelings for each other. Eventually, Nick and Bee come to the conclusion that they have to meet in person, yet when they both arrive at their planned destination, they discover it's love at the right time, but in the completely wrong place.

Deep inside the Vatican library, a priest discovers the rarest and most valuable art object ever found: the manuscript of "The Divine Comedy," written in Dante's own hand. Via Sicily, the manuscript makes its way from the priest to a mob boss in New York City, where a writer named Nick Tosches is called to authenticate the prize. For this writer, the temptation is too great: he steals the manuscript in a last-chance bid to have it all. As this dark and twisted journey unfolds, so too does a parallel tale: the odyssey of Dante himself, a man trying to weave a poem that contains the sum of the world's wisdom and the very breath of the divine.

Be invited into some very different No. 9s, where the ordinary and mundane rub shoulders with the extraordinary and macabre. From a grand country house where a game of 'sardines' leads to some chilling revelations in a wardrobe; to a very oddly haunted house; to a blood-soaked actor's dressing room in London's West End; to the flat of an apparently happy primary school teacher who becomes the victim of a good deed; these unpredictable tales feature high comedy and claustrophobic horror by turns.

Chronicling the mortal and immortal lives of Louis De Pointe Du Lac as told to the journalist Daniel Malloy. His companionship with the Vampire Lestat and rearing of their Vampire Child Claudia. His escape to Eastern Europe. His nights with the Theatre Des Vampires in Paris. His reconciliation with the Vampire Lestat in New Orleans. The new Interview With The Vampire series will follow Daniel Malloy “an award-winning investigative journalist”. Daniel takes this second chance to report one of the most significant stories of his career as a journalist. Daniel travels to the other side of the world to interview the 146-year-old vampire, Louis De Pointe Du Lac. Louis shares the tale of his astounding and sinful journey to immortality once and for all. With a career full of ups and downs he considers himself a wealth of knowledge and experience and now, during the COVID pandemic, Daniel Malloy is also a professor teaching an online class. Daniel has the chance to conduct an interview with a vampire for the second time, Louis de Pointe Du Lac. In the past Daniel's drug use inhibited his professionalism during the first interview so he knows he needs to conduct it the right way this time. Louis is a 33-year-old Creole brothel owner, who has maintained a veneer of self-assuredness and pride through hubris and belligerence. And while respected by many he was disregarded by his wealthy counterparts for his skin color. “For truth and reconciliation” Louis calls upon Daniel, an investigative journalist, to finally tell his true tale.

Walter Karrant (Jackson), a former Michelin starred chef, has gone from being the top chef at the White House to now, 20 plus years later, making meals for the inmates at a federal correctional institution. However, his exacting standards about food have never faltered, and when death row inmate Jeffrey Reed (Holbrook) refuses to eat his meals, Walter has to find out why. He learns that Reed, who proclaims his innocence, is on a hunger strike in a desperate attempt to bring attention to his plight. When local food critic Hannah Corddry helps bring Reed's story to a wider audience, Walter finds himself the reluctant focus of a media frenzy. But his new friendship with Reed -- and with Hannah -- takes him out of his self-imposed shell and transforms him into a fierce political warrior against the vested interests that would send Reed to the death chamber without due process -- but it's a fight that may cost Walter his reputation -- and his freedom.

The engrossing tale of the post-apocalypse centered on the relationship between Joel (Pedro Pascal), a smuggler in this new world, and Ellie (Bella Ramsey), a teenager who may be a key to a cure for the deadly pandemic. Joel, a hardened survivor, is hired to smuggle the 14-year-old girl out of an oppressive quarantine zone. What starts as a small job soon becomes a brutal, heartbreaking journey, as they both must traverse across the U.S. and depend on each other for survival. In New York City, when a crime is committed, the victims are represented by two distinctly separate yet forever intertwined groups of people. There's the police department, represented here by the 27th precinct homicide detectives. It is their job to investigate the crime, collect evidence, interview witnesses and then, when the evidence points to a suspect or suspects, they will place them under arrest. The matter is then taken over by the prosecutors of the Manhattan District Attorney's office, who discuss deals and plea bargains, prepare the witnesses and evidence all whilst conducting the people's case in the trial of the accused. Both teams work together as well as with the Medical Examiners Office, Crime Lab and Police and District Attorney psychologists or psychiatrists. Matters are rarely resolved easily, or for the people involved, satisfactory. Crimes are committed which frequently create public unrest and controversy, race, morals and beliefs are frequently challenged and manipulated, the guilty can go unpunished and the innocent ruined forever. The detectives and prosecutors are weary, cynical, flawed, human and vulnerable. And, yet they are somehow still dedicated to their jobs, to make the guilty answer for their crimes and gain some sense of justice for the victim and the victim's family. These are their stories... The drama features Meloni reprising his beloved “Law & Order: SVU” role as Elliot Stabler, who returns to the NYPD to battle organized crime after a devastating personal loss. However, the city and police department have changed dramatically in the decade he's been away, and he must adapt to a criminal justice system in the midst of its own moment of reckoning. Throughout the series, we will follow Stabler's journey to find absolution and rebuild his life, while leading a new elite task force that is taking apart the city's most powerful criminal syndicates one by one.

Four days before Christmas 1988 Jim Swire's daughter Flora is murdered, along with 269 others when terrorists blow Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie. His life ripped apart, Jim, an unassuming country doctor, finds himself consumed by the need to find the truth of who killed her and why. All too soon his campaign pulls him away from his wife Jane, two other children William and Cathy and onto the political and media world stage. When two Libyans are accused of the crime he even finds himself consorting with Colonel Gaddafi in an attempt to persuade him to give the suspects up for trial under Scottish law. Yet soon Jim's belief in the Libyans' guilt and in the integrity of both his government and its justice system is obliterated as the trial exposes a tangled web of compromised witnesses, tainted evidence and shady geopolitical game playing. When one of the men Abdelbaset Megrahi is found guilty, Jim's search for the truth becomes a quest to find justice for the man accused of killing.

A drama based on the real events surrounding the 1988 Lockerbie bombing and the joint Scots-US investigation which sought to bring the perpetrators to justice. Lockerbie will focus on the investigation into the crash on both sides of the Atlantic and the devastating effect it had on the small town and the families who lost loved ones. From the initial exhaustive search for evidence on the ground in Scotland, via the US and Malta to the trial at Camp Zeist in 2000, the drama goes right up to the most recent indictment at the end of 2022.

Long Island New York's golden north shore plays host to a collective of offbeat stories, as two siblings recount their sometimes disastrous attempts at finding the right partner. The story begins with Dino and Jenny, both early thirties, on a sound side beach on Long Island, in the middle of the night and hidden in their shadows and silhouettes is that both are inexplicably nude. We find out immediately they are adopted siblings, having been apart for several years now, and an ongoing storyline is how they wound up in their present predicament. This story becomes a “wrap-around” piece, as we see the details of their mystery told in reverse order, revealing a little bit at a time how they came to be in their present predicament.

From the outside, Hollywood starlet Lana Turner seemed to have it all—a thriving film career, a beautiful daughter, and the kind of fame and fortune that most people could only dream of. But when the famous femme fatale began dating mobster Johnny Stompanato, thug for the infamous west coast mob boss Mickey Cohen, her personal life became violent and unpredictable. Lana's teenage daughter, Cheryl, watched her beloved mother's life deteriorate as Stompanato's intense jealousy took over. Eventually, the physical and emotional abuse became too much to bear, and Lana attempted to break it off with Johnny—with disastrous consequences. The details of what happened that fateful night remain foggy, but it ended in a series of frantic phone calls and Stompanato dead on Lana's bedroom floor, with Cheryl claiming to have plunged a knife into his abdomen in an attempt to protect her mother. The subsequent murder trial made for the biggest headlines of the year, its drama eclipsing every Hollywood movie.

Welcome To the Neighborhood centers on the nicest guy in the Midwest who moves his family into a tough neighborhood in L.A. where not everyone appreciates his extreme neighborliness. McKinney will play Malcolm, chill and dryly sarcastic, he is the younger son of Calvin and Loretta. His older brother, Marty (Spears), is the "good" son, and Malcolm is the more street-smart member of the family. Malcolm believes the world doesn't see him as clearly as he sees it and under different circumstances, he would be a respected business man. But as it is, his "business" isn't something he wants to discuss with strangers like Dave and Gemma. Spears' Marty works at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory as an engineer, and he's considerably more friendly and welcoming than anyone else in his family. When John O'Leary was nine years old, he was almost killed in a devastating house fire. With burns on one hundred percent of his body, O'Leary mustered an almost unimaginable amount of inner strength just to survive the ordeal. The insights he gained through this experience and the heroes who stepped into his life to help him through the journey—his family, the medical staff, and total strangers—changed his life. Now he is committed to living life to the fullest and inspiring others to do the same. An incredible and emotionally honest account of triumph over tragedy, On Fire contains O'Leary's reflections on being that little boy, the life-giving choices made then, and the resulting lessons he learned. O'Leary very clearly shares that without the right people providing the right guidance, at the right time, he never would have made it through those five months in the hospital, let alone the years that followed as he struggled to regain mobility, embrace his story, and ignite clarity of his life's purpose.

 The incredible story of Tom Brady and the Patriots' tumultuous 2016 season: from national disgrace to the greatest Super Bowl comeback of all time. In January 2015, rumors circulated that the New England Patriots - a team long suspected of abiding by the "if you ain't cheating you ain't trying" philosophy - had used under-inflated footballs in their playoff victory against the Indianapolis Colts. As evidence began to build, however, a full on NFL investigation was launched, exploding an unsubstantiated rumor into an intense scandal that would lead news coverage for weeks. As shockwaves rippled throughout the NFL system, the very legitimacy of one of the league's most popular teams and their star quarterback began to erode, even as the Patriots and Brady went on to win that year's Super Bowl. But as the celebrations gave way to the offseason, the investigation only intensified, reopening old wounds between the Patriots' powerful owner, Robert Kraft, and the NFL commissioner, Roger Goodell. Brady was devastated and seemingly more nervous in front of a judge than on a game-winning drive. When the dust settled, Brady would be able to play again - but only after watching the first four games of the 2016 season from his couch. The pressure couldn't have been more intense: Brady's legacy was at stake. If he failed to return to his usual self, all the critics and even the history books would have to put a giant asterisk next to his name, signifying one thing: he was a cheater.

The fantasy series is a reimagining of the myth of King Arthur, set not in the Medieval age of knights in shining armor, but in an earlier time — the end of Roman Britain when pagan tribes warred with Saxon and Pict invaders, and with each other, and the idea of a unified Britain was only a dream. In this tumultuous world Merlin, the son of an Atlantean princess and the bard, Taliesen, pursues his father's vision of a Kingdom of Summer — a Britain unified in peace. But to achieve this dream, Merlin will have to overcome ancient evils and navigate both the fall of the Roman occupation and the rise of Christianity in search of a king who can unite the Island of the Mighty. Jacob Finch Bonner was once a promising young novelist with a respectably published first book. Today, he's teaching in a third-rate MFA program and struggling to maintain what's left of his self-respect; he hasn't written - let alone published - anything decent in years. When Evan Parker, his most arrogant student, announces he doesn't need Jake's help because the plot of his book in progress is a sure thing, Jake is prepared to dismiss the boast as typical amateur narcissism. But then...he hears the plot. Jake returns to the downward trajectory of his own career and braces himself for the supernova publication of Evan Parker's first novel: but it never comes. When he discovers that his former student has died, presumably without ever completing his book, Jake does what any self-respecting writer would do with a story like that - a story that absolutely needs to be told. In a few short years, all of Evan Parker's predictions have come true, but Jake is the author enjoying the wave. He is wealthy, famous, praised and read all over the world. But at the height of his glorious new life, an e-mail arrives, the first salvo in a terrifying, anonymous campaign: You are a thief, it says. As Jake struggles to understand his antagonist and hide the truth from his readers and his publishers, he begins to learn more about his late student, and what he discovers both amazes and terrifies him. Who was Evan Parker, and how did he get the idea for his "sure thing" of a novel? What is the real story behind the plot, and who stole it from whom?

It's been 30 years since Dr. Sam Beckett (Scott Bakula) stepped into the Quantum Leap accelerator and vanished. Now a new team has been assembled to restart the project in the hopes of understanding the mysteries behind the machine and the man who created it. Embracing the iconic series' signature blend of humor, heart, and history, this reboot expands upon the Quantum Leap universe, taking us on a thrilling journey across space and time, exploring the timeless notion of what it's like to walk in another person's shoes, and the enduring value of changing lives for the better. Lee plays the lead, Dr. Ben Seong, a world-renowned physicist working on a time-travel project known as Quantum Leap who gets stuck in the late 1980s with amnesia after using the technology. Hudson portrays Herbert "Magic" Williams, a Vietnam veteran and head of the time travel project at Quantum Leap. Using a bit of politicking and his military know-how to keep the Pentagon at bay, Magic buys the team some time to rescue Ben but expects answers once he's back. Two young half Indonesian sisters, raised in the US, decide to discover their mother's culture. Jaya, a professional skateboarder, with a troubled history of night terrors, self harm, and tranquilizer addiction and Meredith, an Instagram influencer haunted by the suicide of a rival, travel to Bali to experience Nyepi, the Day of Silence, during which fire, light, electricity, traveling and revelry are prohibited. They're invited to a temple ceremony by their uncle Komang, a Pecalang Community Policeman. Only when hotel guests violate traditional Nyepi codes of silence the incensed Komang becomes abnormally violent. The residents apologize and carry out an improvised ceremony of atonement. But when they discover the decapitated head of one of the other guests lying on the floor of the bedroom they realize that Komang has become possessed by an evil spirit. Grayson along with Oliver, a self-appointed expert on Balinese culture soon believe that the spirit is none other than Rangda, the witch Queen of Bali. Oliver claims their survival depends on summoning Barong, the King of Spirits. After narrowly thwarting several attempts by Komang to kill them, Bastian - Meredith's ex boyfriend - desperately tries to call for help but the Internet and cellphone coverage are cut off for Nyepi. They attempt to barricade doors and windows only to discover a blood trail: Komang has somehow already slipped inside the house. As Rangda becomes deadlier, she leaves Komang's body and reveals in her true self: an old woman, with long and unkempt hair and claws. The group completes the ritual to summon Barong but some of them won't make it to sunrise alive.

Milo Weaver has tried to leave his old life of secrets and lies behind by giving up his job as a "tourist" for the CIA—an undercover agent with no home, no identity—and working a desk at the CIA's New York headquarters. But staying retired from the field becomes impossible when the arrest of a long-sought-after assassin sets off an investigation into one of Milo's oldest colleagues and friends. With new layers of intrigue being exposed in his old cases, he has no choice but to go back undercover and find out who's been pulling the strings once and for all.

Edith Twyford was once a world-famous children's author, but now her only legacy is the rumored existence of the Twyford Code: a series of clues hidden in her books leading to... what? No one knows - but that hasn't stopped the speculation. Steve Smith can trace nearly all the bad things in his life back to Edith Twyford. As a child he found one of her books, covered in strange symbols. He showed it to his teacher, Miss Iles, who was convinced it held the key to the code. Within weeks Miss Iles had disappeared, and Steve has no idea if she is dead or alive - or if she was right. Now he's determined to find out.

As can be seen from the title, Vincenzo Malinconico is a lawyer who spends his days in a precarious manner, has to deal with few clients to assist and with cases of little importance; in short, an unsuccessful lawyer indeed. Divorced and with two children, women like him for his insecurity and clumsiness, yet he is unable to achieve a fulfilled love life. His professional career suddenly takes a turning point when he finds himself defending a Camorra butcher accused of destroying and concealing a corpse, a case that he takes to heart with all its developments and consequences. Since it is a legal drama series, a genre that focuses on judicial figures such as lawyers or judges, the police are predominantly absent, but the structure of the crime story is not missing, since the search for clues to this crime is carried out by the lawyer Malinconico, an investigator on generis. There's a school like Waterloo Road in every town in Britain. The students and staff embark on another term of romances and friendships, all whilst navigating issues including mental health, racism, the cost-of-living crisis and being LGBTQ+. Following the news that fan favorite and former deputy head, Andrew Treneman (Jamie Glover) is returning to the show, audiences will be kept guessing whether Kim's old flame is back with good intentions or not. Meanwhile, new boy Myles (Osian Morgan), who has been let go by a football Academy and is struggling to come to terms with a life back in mainstream education, makes it clear that he's not there to make friends, and immediately sets about making a lasting impact on the school. Elsewhere, love is in the air this term as new couples get together and hidden feelings come to the surface.

Based on the behind-the-scenes accounts of Saturday Night Live's 1975 opening night. The film will be set on Oct. 11th, 1975, where a ferocious troupe of young comedians and writers changed television forever. This is the true story of what happened that night behind the scenes in the moments leading up to the first broadcast of Saturday Night Live. The chaos and magic of a revolution that almost wasn't, as we countdown the minutes in real time to the infamous words, Live From New York, it's Saturday Night.

Yellowjackets follows a girls' high school soccer team. In 1975, the Dearborn High Yellowjackets became the first team in state history to qualify for the Girls' U.S. Soccer Championship Series in Manchester, NH. They never got the chance to compete. Equal parts survival epic, horror story and pitch black coming of age, Yellowjackets tells the story of the (un)lucky survivors of a plane crash deep in the Ontario wilderness, chronicling their descent from a friendly, cooperative team to warring, cannibalistic clans. At the same time, it follows the lives they've attempted to piece back together nearly twenty-five years later, proving that the past is never really past and what began out in the wilderness is far from over. Season 3 on hold due to writers strike. (Writers room scheduled to reopen October 4.)
