Discovered after a short stint in the Negro Leagues, Henry Aaron signed with the Braves over the Giants, and later said the only thing keeping him from being a teammate of Willie Mays was the $50 a month more that the Braves offered. He was one of the most consistent and durable players, and by 1973, was poised to surpass Ruth's career homer record. What should have been a joyful capper to a great career was instead turned into an opportunity to shine during duress as a reluctant hero. The humble Aaron was subjected to an onslaught of racist hate mail and enough death threats. While Aaron at the time bore the abuse quietly, many of the threats were credible enough to warrant the bodyguard. The film will focus on these two Black men confronting the depths of bigotry in the Deep South, as Aaron tried to maintain his focus to break baseball's most hallowed record. Even as Aaron rounded the bases triumphantly after hitting 715, two white fans who mobbed him on the base paths to Aaron's mind could have been there to harm him.

A modern take on the popular horror franchise. On a cold wet night in November 1974, twenty-two-year old Ronald DeFeo woke from a disturbed sleep, got out of bed zombie-like, and took down his .35 caliber rifle. He then went from room to room in his suburban home and methodically killed his entire family. Within minutes, his father, mother, eleven-and nine-year-old brothers, and thirteen- and eighteen-year-old sisters lay dead in their own blood. DeFeo telephoned the police, and calmly reported finding his family murdered upon returning home from work. Forty hours later, DeFeo confessed to the killings. He was convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced to six consecutive terms of twenty-five years each--a total of 150 years in prison. Though he knows he did the shooting, he still does not know why. (October 31 - November 25)

The comedy series follows a group of local Animal Control workers whose lives are complicated by the fact that animals are simple, but humans are not. McHale will play Frank, an opinionated, eccentric Animal Control officer who may not have gone to college but is still the most well-read person in the room. A former cop, Frank tried to expose corruption in his department, but his efforts got him fired, which may explain why he's so cynical and curmudgeonly. He has an almost superhuman ability to understand animals. Humans...not so much. (October 31 - January 25)

The Delaneys are fixtures in their community. The parents, Stan and Joy, are the envy of all of their friends. They're killers on the tennis court, and off it their chemistry is palpable. But after fifty years of marriage, they've finally sold their famed tennis academy and are ready to start what should be the golden years of their lives. So why are Stan and Joy so miserable? The four Delaney children—Amy, Logan, Troy, and Brooke—were tennis stars in their own right, yet as their father will tell you, none of them had what it took to go all the way. But that's okay, now that they're all successful grown-ups and there is the wonderful possibility of grandchildren on the horizon. One night a stranger named Savannah knocks on Stan and Joy's door, bleeding after a fight with her boyfriend. The Delaneys are more than happy to give her the small kindness she sorely needs. If only that was all she wanted. Later, when Joy goes missing, and Savannah is nowhere to be found, the police question the one person who remains: Stan. But for someone who claims to be innocent, he, like many spouses, seems to have a lot to hide. Two of the Delaney children think their father is innocent, two are not so sure—but as the two sides square off against each other in perhaps their biggest match ever, all of the Delaneys will start to reexamine their shared family history in a very new light.

The thriller series follows a seemingly perfect American family in Berlin whose secrets come to light when they hire a new nanny, unaware that she is trying to expose the parents' corrupt financial and familial ties. Mafia kingpin Mario Ruggiero--as elusive as he is brutal--has built an empire on the blood of his enemies. U.S. Federal Agent Axel Moen has sworn to bring the Sicilian down, no matter how, no matter who pays the price. And now he's found a way to penetrate the Ruggiero family through Charlotte Parsons, a former nanny in the home of Mario's brother, and the perfect pawn in this brutal game. (aka "KILLING GROUND")

Ricky (Harrington) makes serious money dealing illegal weapons throughout the tri-state area...and loves to flaunt it. Cliff (McNairy), one of the last of his kind, a traveling salesman, covers the same territory Ricky runs guns through. When the two cohorts from years ago run into each other, Cliff desperate to find some financial relief for his struggling family, agrees to partner with Ricky, who is expanding to include cross-state drug and gun deliveries for a mid-level American cartel boss John (Lucas). Cliff doesn't like the situation one bit but with no other options to make some fast money he allows his beat-up station wagon to be retrofitted to secretly carry dozens of kilos of drugs. When a simple exchange turns into a bloodbath, Ricky kills everyone in a territory grab. Cliff, the most unlikely drug dealer, partnered with a dangerous man with his own agenda, must come to terms with the choices he's made. Having John's money and drugs brings a hard retribution down on the duo with a very new scenario pressure cooking the pair till an explosive outcome where Cliff has to fight just to stay alive.

(Can't) Let It Go is a political comedy set in New York on the eve of the 2016 election. There are five interconnected vignettes all revolving around the lead up to and aftermath of Donald Trump's surprise victory. At its core, (Can't) Let It Go is about unique New York characters and their zany personal and political interactions: an African American gay man being paid as a Trump stand in, a Hillary Clinton campaign worker who moonlights as a dominatrix, a blue collar independent looking to start a kosher laundromat, a conservative Cuban e'migre' and his socialist daughter, a top Trump campaign worker and his apolitical model girlfriend, and a left wing, dog hating activist and actor who yearns to play John Wilkes Booth. Using images from both the film itself and from iconic political imagery, each vignette ends in a surreal, nightmare montage that conjures up each character's personal and political demons. In our current atmosphere of political misinformation, these dream sequences further reinforce the character's tenuous hold on reality.

Quinn Maybrook and her father have moved to tiny, boring Kettle Springs, to find a fresh start. But what they don't know is that ever since the Baypen Corn Syrup Factory shut down, Kettle Springs has cracked in half. On one side are the adults, who are desperate to make Kettle Springs great again, and on the other are the kids, who want to have fun, make prank videos, and get out of Kettle Springs as quick as they can. Kettle Springs is caught in a battle between old and new, tradition and progress. It's a fight that looks like it will destroy the town. Until Frendo, the Baypen mascot, a creepy clown in a pork-pie hat, goes homicidal and decides that the only way for Kettle Springs to grow back is to cull the rotten crop of kids who live there now.

Several decades ago, a highly infectious, constantly mutating micro-organism — capable of extinction-level destruction — was contained in a military facility. In the present day, the military has sealed the facility's lowest sublevel, selling the remaining space to a self-storage company. As temperatures rise underground, the micro-organism finds a way to escape — and if left to spread, it will soon uncontrollably multiply around the world. The fate of humanity now rests on a retired bioterror operative and two unlikely heroes employed in the facility, who are caught in a race against time to destroy the organism and save mankind.

Eddie Braun is a blues-loving, honest detective in San Diego. When he's not clearing the streets of gang bangers and drug dealers, he can be found at local blues bars playing his guitar. Eddie has worked for years with a man named James Tilden. Tilden is more than a partner; he's a mentor and family friend who also worked with Eddie's dad. After leaving Tilden's retirement party, Eddie chases down a street hustler, only to find out it's his old friend AJ. Eddie and AJ were once thick as thieves, but their lives diverged when Eddie became a cop and AJ became a junkie. But there's still love between them. Meanwhile, in the mountainous Southern California desert, a shack doubling as a meth-lab explodes in flames. Eddie goes into the office the next day, where Lieutenant Scanlon introduces him to his new partner, Marvin Broussard. Broussard is Eddie's opposite in every way. A devout Christian, soft-spoken, a stickler for the rules. As they patrol the streets, they pass a convoy of police cruisers speeding to the scene of a crime, which prompts Eddie to whip the car around to follow them. The scene of the crime is a blacktop basketball court, where Eddie is crushed to see AJ hanging from the hoop, dead. While on the scene, Broussard quickly gathers that Eddie rubs Detectives Rosetti, Foy, Ferguson and Garcia the wrong way. Back at the station, Scanlon rejects Eddie's request to handle the case. Broussard starts to learn why the other cops don't like Eddie. Years earlier, Eddie was a whistleblower, exposing corruption within the department. As a result of his actions, his own father was forced into early retirement. A decorated cop named Harry Mills (Quaid) was at the center of the scandal that got his dad fired but was never formally implicated. Eddie secretly continues working on the case and believes he has established a connection between AJ's death and the destruction of the meth lab. He utilizes every street-level contact he has in searching for the truth, including the suave and ruthless gangster named Toffee. One by one, dealers and junkies continue to die. Eddie finds that the closer he gets to the truth, the greater he risks his life. He and his partner both survive ambushes, but Eddie continues undeterred. What he eventually uncovers is a scandal that threatens to bring down his own department and shatter his few remaining relationships within the police force, including his uneasy relationship with Harry Mills — whom he suspects is the ringleader.

The crime, mystery, and thriller will focus on Metropolitan Police Department detective and father Alex Cross as he faces threats to his family and the city of Washington, D.C. Cross is a detective and forensic psychologist, uniquely capable of digging into the psyches of killers and their victims, in order to identify—and ultimately capture—the murderers. He is brilliant, flawed, and full of contradictions. A doting father and family man, Cross is single-minded to the point of obsession when he hunts killers. He is desperate for love, but his wife’s murder has left him too damaged to receive it.

The story, which was first published in 1782, follows the Marquise de Merteuil and the Vicomte de Valmont, two narcissistic rivals and ex-lovers who use seduction to control and exploit others. It explores the world of the French aristocracy shortly before the French revolution. The series will tell the origin story of the early years of both characters when they meet as passionate young lovers in the slums of 18th century Paris. It will be told from the perspective of Merteuil, informed by her line from the novel, “Born to avenge my sex and conquer yours, I have succeeded in inventing strategies for doing so that before me had never been conceived.”

A drama based on the true story of the time that a serial killer competed on and won a date on the popular TV game show The Dating Game. The killer, Rodney Alcalá, was in the midst of a killing spree in 1978 when he brazenly took part in the show. Kendrick will play Cheryl Bradshaw, the contestant. The film revolves around the events of the game show. At that time, Alcalá had murdered five women and been convicted of the attempted murder of a 12-year old girl but he made it onto the show because background checks were more lax. That left Bradshaw in a position where she was supposed to go on a chaperoned date with Alcalá, only to find she was put off by his odd vibe. In 1980, he was sentenced to death for a murder and investigators found evidence — hundreds of photos of women, girls and boys, and keepsakes police believed were from victims — in a storage locker. While he would appeal several times, when advances in DNA were made, he was tied to more murders. His execution postponed indefinitely when California declared a moratorium on death penalty cases in 2019, Alcalá is rotting in state prison in Corcoran, California. Detectives have estimated he may have killed as many as 130 people. (October 31 – December 1 | aka “RODNEY & SHERYL”)

Enter a school of magic unlike any you have ever encountered. There are no teachers, no holidays, friendships are purely strategic, and the odds of survival are never equal. Once you're inside, there are only two ways out: you graduate or you die. Galadriel "El" Higgins, is uniquely prepared for the school's many dangers. She may be without allies, but she possesses a dark power strong enough to level mountains and wipe out untold millions — never mind easily destroy the countless monsters that prowl the school. Except, she might accidentally kill all the other students, too. So El is trying her hardest not to use it... that is, unless she has no other choice.

In a forgotten patch of French countryside, a woman is battling her demons: embracing exclusion yet wanting to belong, craving freedom whilst feeling trapped, yearning for family life but wanting to burn the entire house down. Given surprising leeway by her family for her increasingly erratic behaviour, she nevertheless feels ever more stifled and repressed. Motherhood, womanhood, the banality of love, the terrors of desire, the brutality of 'another person carrying your heart forever': Die, My Love faces all this with a raw intensity. It's not a question of if a breaking point will be reached, but rather when, and how violent a form will it take?

The U.S. version of the British series Friday Night Dinner, which ran for six seasons between 2011 and 2020, is centered around the regular dinner experience of the middle class British Jewish Goodman family every Friday night. The U.S. version of the half-hour single-camera comedy will follow much of this. It is centered around two brothers in their 20s go to their mom and dad's for dinner each week and somehow get through it without actually, physically, dying of embarrassment. If your 54-year-old dad has ever "dabbed" while shirtless in front of your girlfriend, or your mom won't stop bringing up that time when you had to be rushed to the pediatrician after an incident with a shampoo bottle, which is why your brother still calls you "Pert Plus," you will relate to this show. If not, must be nice!

Based on the real-life FBI Operation of the same name centers on FBI special agent Jim Anderson (Morgan), who faces the overwhelming job of ridding methamphetamine from Harlan, Kentucky — a sprawling mountain ghetto policed by only a handful of lawmen. Over the course of the pic, Jim finds himself pitted against a former coal union boss turned drug kingpin. With a different skin color and a badge that means little in the hollers, he recruits local cop, Harlan native and recovering addict Cam (Jake Allyn) to assist. They start an investigation into locally made meth, or "Dixie Crystal," and the locals behind it. But the deeper the investigation goes, the more Jim realizes that the drugs he's chasing, and the miners cooking them, are the only things keeping this community alive. In this county, meth is the new coal.

Ex-detective Cristini has been in a coma for the past six years and is about to start a jail sentence for corruption. He is confined to a wheelchair and has only one thing in mind: get revenge on the man who put him there. A charismatic criminal known as Doberman. Doberman appears on Cristini's radar after a spectacular bank robbery, the first one since Cristini was in a coma. District Attorney Peters strikes a deal with the corrupted detective: his freedom for his collaboration in finding Doberman. Dob and Joe, his accomplice, are already planning their next job, steal $100 Million in diamonds owned by a corrupted Armenian family. In order to pull this off, Dob needs his entire team back. He helps Grey to escape from jail. The rest of the team is assembled: Priest, Luna, Crystal, Buzz, Max, and the Sig Sauer Brothers. The team organizes a plan to steal the diamonds from a fake Red Cross convoy. Meanwhile, Cristini takes over the hunt for Doberman, albeit in an unofficial capacity, and gets wind of the plan to steal the diamonds. Doberman and his team have prepared a perfect plan suddenly disrupted by a series of unexpected events. They are confronted with a battalion of well-trained mercenaries during a long and violent shoot-out around a gas station in the middle of the desert. The operation is a success except for Max's death. Dob knows that Cristini is waiting for him. Once again, he has planned it all to get his own revenge against the death of his brother, viciously killed by the corrupted cop. Cristini along with Peters plan to kill Dob and steal the diamonds. But the diamonds are not there.

In a switch from the original 1980s show that starred Lee Majors, the story doesn't focus on a stuntman with a side hustle as a bounty hunter. Instead focuses on a battered and past-his-prime stuntman, being played by Gosling, who finds himself back on a movie with the star for whom he doubled long ago and who replaced him. The wrinkle, however, is that the star has gone missing. Hsu will play the assistant to the movie star, who is being played by Taylor-Johnson. Blunt is cast as a prosthetic makeup artist that has a romantic past with the stuntman. (Release Date: March 1, 2024)

The series explores what happens when a one-hit-wonder girl group from the '90s gets sampled by a young rapper and its members reunite to give their pop star dreams one more shot. They may be grown women balancing spouses, kids, jobs, debt, aging parents and shoulder pain, but can't they also be Girls5Eva? Bareilles will star as Dawn, former member of the short-lived 90s girl group Girls5eva, who is now a bit restless in life managing her family's small Italian restaurant in Queens. When the opportunity arises, Dawn reluctantly gets the band back together for a Girls5eva reunion and it might just be exactly what she needed.

Good Side of a Bad Man will chart the true story of Pretty Boy Floyd (Hirsch), a poor midwestern farm boy who grew up to become one of the most notorious criminals of the Depression era. Labeled as a deadly crook and danger to society, the film will see the FBI assign storied agent Melvin Purvis (Jane) to lead the manhunt to take down Floyd, who in the eyes of his wife Ruby (Benson) and the farmers plagued by extreme poverty, is their very own Robin Hood, stealing from the rich and sharing with the long-suffering community he was raised in.

Hailey Rose is a colorful, sometimes humorous, heartfelt story of guilt, loss, and learning to love yourself. Hailey, a newly unemployed queer millennial has spent her adult life running away from her upbringing. When she's tricked by her melodramatic sister Rose to return home a decade after escaping her Nova Scotia hometown, Hailey is forced to come face to face with the muddy waters of her dysfunctional family and the ghosts of her guilty past. Through searching for the boat her father left her in his will, the Hailey Rose, Hailey will finally learn the truth about his death. She confronts a lifelong power struggle with her mother (who Rose told her had died but who is still... very much, alive). Along the way, she will reconnect with old friends and lost loves over bologna barbecues, lobster boils, and funerals. (November 8 - December 1 | aka "WILTING IRIS")

Here is centered in one room, and focuses on the many people who inhabit it over years and years, from the past to the distant future, ranging from the year 500,957,406,073 BCE to the year 2033 CE. A wide variety of people, animals, and furnishings are shown passing through the space, including several recurring characters, such as a woman shown cleaning the room in 1973, 1983, 1993, 1994, 1995 and 1996. The corner of the room itself is the most enduring presence in the story; panels show the house being constructed in 1902 and sheltering several generations of occupants before burning in a fire in 2029 and being demolished in 2030. The space is shown to be a barnyard in the 19th century before the house is built, and the site of open-air band concerts after the house has been razed.

A Hitchcock-ian style thriller with black humor, in which a Midwestern housewife suspects that her husband is having an affair. As she peels back the surface of her seemingly perfect life, she learns her husband might be leading a dark, secret life. In a suburban home in Holland, Michigan, prudish high school teacher Nancy Vandergroot searches for a missing earring, then questions her clueless babysitter Candy Deboar. Her young son Harry stands up for Candy and storms off to call his optometrist father Fred. Fred returns home and heads straight to the garage which houses his elaborate model train set. Over dinner Fred informs Nancy of an upcoming business trip to Frankenmuth. At school Nancy discusses her frustrations over the earring and Fred's aloofness with fellow teacher Javier "Dave" Delgado, and the sexual tension between them is obvious. Home alone and growing restless, Nancy hits the road, first confronting Candy about the earring then heading to Dave's house where he advises her to find evidence before making accusations. She searches every inch of her home and accidentally discovers a pair of Candy's panties in Harry's bedroom as well as a mysterious box in the garage. Later as Nancy cleans the house, she discovers a crumpled parking ticket from Madison, Wisconsin which Fred has never visited to her knowledge. She returns to the box and opens it, finding twenty packs of Polaroid film.

Blue skies and bikinis. Sex and sand. Bullets and blow. This is the story of Roman Compte, Cuban exile, CIA operative and general manager of the Hotel Mutiny, the glamorous epicenter of the late 70's, early 80's Miami cocaine scene. The Hotel Mutiny was Casablanca on cocaine, a glitzy nightclub, restaurant, and hotel frequented by Florida businessmen and politicians, international narcotics, CIA and FBI agents, models, sports stars, and musicians - particularly the up-and-coming Latin acts who came from South America with their instruments and four kilos of cocaine in their suitcases, and Compte was at the center, doing his best to keep it all going and fulfill his own American Dream.

Industry gives an insider's view of the blackbox of high finance following a group of young bankers as they forge their identities within the pressure cooker environment and sex and drug fueled blitz of international bank Pierpoint & Co's London office. In Season 2, the grads are no longer allowed to hide behind their graduate status. The market is ripping, and Pierpoint's back to work or else mandate has the trading floor more charged up and paranoid than ever. New U.S. management will be gasoline on the flames – an injection of cross Atlantic energy that lights a fire under each and every employee. Now Harper (Myha'la Herrold), Yasmin (Marisa Abela) and Robert (Harry Lawtey) must drive new business and make new alliances both in and out of the office as Pierpoint and its junior bankers seek to take every advantage in a post-COVID world.

Knight's Camp follows four bubble-wrapped teens at a summer "knight's training camp" who are preparing to re-enact an ancient battle when they are accidentally transported to the real battle in 1293. Set in and around a Scottish castle, the comedy seeks to highlight the clash between modern-day teens and the realistically brutal world of those gritty times. The producers describe it as being a blend of dark humor intersecting with a medieval thriller.

Beth's (Schumer) life looks pretty great on paper. Impressive to everyone she grew up with. She makes a good living as a wine distributor. She's in a long-term relationship with an attractive, successful guy and lives in Manhattan. When a sudden incident forces Beth to engage with her past, her life changes forever. Through flashbacks to her teen self, Beth starts to learn how she became who she is and who she wants to become. We'll go on her journey toward building a more authentic life. Learning to express herself and living in an intentional way. A trip down memory lane is a strong source of trauma, comedy and moving forward. Cera will play John, a farmer and chef who is always honest and to the point. Rapaport will play Leonard, teenage Beth's father who's down on his luck. After taking on a foreclosure case, defense attorney Mickey Haller must prove his client's innocence -- but first he must follow a trail of black market evidence to its sinister end. Mickey Haller has fallen on tough times. He expands his business into foreclosure defense, only to see one of his clients accused of killing the banker she blames for trying to take away her home. Mickey puts his team into high gear to exonerate Lisa Trammel, even though the evidence and his own suspicions tell him his client is guilty. Soon after he learns that the victim had black market dealings of his own, Haller is assaulted, too -- and he's certain he's on the right trail.

Mayans M.C. follows the life of Ezekiel "EZ" Reyes, played by JD Pardo, a newly patched member of the Mayans M.C. charter on the Cali/Mexi border. Once the golden boy with the American Dream in his grasp, EZ and his brother Angel, played by Clayton Cardenas, are closer than ever after uncovering the truth behind their mother's murder while their father Felipe, played by Edward James Olmos, struggles to reconcile the choices he and his sons have made. After U.S. Assistant District Attorney Lincoln Potter, played by Ray McKinnon, threatens to deport Felipe, EZ and Angel chose to leverage incriminating information to protect him rather than to free rebel leader Adelita, played by Carla Baratta, from federal custody, leaving her to give birth to Angel's son while in handcuffs. Meanwhile, Miguel Galindo, played by Danny Pino, is left reeling over the loss of his mother to apparent suicide, while others quietly suspect foul play. Additionally, the Mayans seek vengeance on their rivals, the Tijuana M.C. Vatos Malditos, after a surprise attack on their club. When the smoke clears, they discover the body of a Sons of Anarchy Motorcycle Club Redwood Original – there will be hell to pay. (December 5 - April 19)

The incredible true story of the top-secret "butcher-and-bolt" black ops units Prime Minister Winston Churchill assigned the task of stopping the unstoppable German war machine. Criminals, rogues, and survivalists, the brutal tactics and grit of these "deniables" would define a military unit the likes of which the world had never seen. When France fell to the Nazis in spring 1940, Churchill declared that Britain would resist the advance of the German army--alone if necessary. Churchill commanded the Special Operations Executive to secretly develop of a very special kind of military unit that would operate on their own initiative deep behind enemy lines. The units would be licensed to kill, fully deniable by the British government, and a ruthless force to meet the advancing Germans. The very first of these "butcher-and-bolt" units--the innocuously named Maid Honour Force--was led by Gus March-Phillipps, a wild British eccentric of high birth, and an aristocratic, handsome, and bloodthirsty young Danish warrior, Anders Lassen. Amped up on amphetamines, these assorted renegades and sociopaths undertook the very first of Churchill's special operations--a top-secret, high-stakes mission to seize Nazi shipping in the far-distant port of Fernando Po, in West Africa.

When Elwood Curtis, a black boy growing up in 1960s Tallahassee, is unfairly sentenced to a juvenile reformatory called the Nickel Academy, he finds himself trapped in a grotesque chamber of horrors. Elwood's only salvation is his friendship with fellow "delinquent" Turner, which deepens despite Turner's conviction that Elwood is hopelessly naive, that the world is crooked, and that the only way to survive is to scheme and avoid trouble. As life at the Academy becomes ever more perilous, the tension between Elwood's ideals and Turner's skepticism leads to a decision whose repercussions will echo down the decades. James O'Brien, 50's, is a detective past his prime, in fact, he's retiring. His wife, Monica, 50's, has a thriving career as a nurse, she's not ready to quit. At James' surprise retirement party they watch the news of the coming Russian invasion into the Ukraine. Monica's father Alain still lives in a ski lodge in Ukraine. She begs James to go. James finally decides that it's time to get Alain out of there. Michail, his brothers Piotr and Ivan, lead a group of pro-Russian soldiers who hijack a shipment of gold from a Ukrainian military escort and have a plan in place to fly it back to Russia. The plan works until their helicopter runs into terrible snowy weather and they crash land somewhere in the Ukrainian mountainside. With the entire Ukrainian government looking for them, Michail and his brothers must figure out a way off the treacherous snowy mountain with a helicopter full of gold. James and Monica travel to the Ukrainian ski lodge. They confront Alain, but he refuses to go. James and Monica argue, they are on the verge of breaking up, both being stubborn, when... Michail and his crew invade the village. James manages to get away, but Monica and the rest of the locals are rounded up and held hostage. James is caught without a weapon, so he takes The Old Gun, a legendary shotgun, off the ski lodge wall and must take down Michail's men with only this gun to save his wife and father-in-law. Dmitri, local Ukrainian detective, runs into James outside of the village. They reluctantly team up to take on Michail's men, Dmitri wants the gold, James wants his wife. Alain tries to help them as best he can, while trying to stay hidden from Michail's men. Monica is forced to save the lives of Michail's wounded soldiers, while hiding who she truly is. Michail has more soldiers inbound to airlift the gold out of there, but James and Dmitri have other plans. They come from different worlds, but they are both good at their profession... taking down criminals. James uses The Old Gun to cause havoc all over the village and stopping Michail's ultimate plan of escape. James and Dmitri race against the clock to stop Michail from leaving the snowy village at all costs. Monica uses her skills as a nurse to stay alive and Alain helps everyone keep these Russians out of the village for good. (aka "THE OLD GUN")

The Other Black Girl centers on Nella, an African-American editorial assistant working her way up at an established, starkly white NYC publishing firm. When the new girl, Hazel arrives, Nella couldn't be more excited to have a black co-worker, but over time Nella's world is turned upside as she goes from office darling to public enemy number one. Is Hazel a friend or foe? The novel is a darkly comedic take on workplace politics and the importance of female friendship. (October 31 - February 11)

Reclusive app developer Mario is tasked with saving his late sister’s pizzeria and reconnecting with his orphaned niece Anna. When Mario’s sister dies, leaving behind her 12-year-old daughter and an ailing pizzeria, Mario is forced out of his self-imposed isolation. He has to travel back to his childhood home in Cape Town, where he is greeted by his feisty niece Anna who wants nothing to do with her uncle. Mario’s world shifts even more when he meets Anna’s upbeat Italian soccer coach, Lisa – whom he soon becomes enamored with. Realising that Pizza con Amore is on the brink of bankruptcy, Lisa suggests that they enter a pizza contest to drum up much-needed publicity. Mario, however, can barely light a woodfire oven, let alone make a pizza. Under strong-willed assistant chef Xolani’s strict tutelage, Mario begins to learn the craft of pizza-making ahead of the local pizza contest. Can the makeshift team turn the restaurant Pizza Con Amore around and qualify for the World Pizza Championships?

Ryland Grace is the sole survivor on a desperate, last-chance mission - and if he fails, humanity and the Earth itself will perish. Except that right now, he doesn't know that. He can't even remember his own name, let alone the nature of his assignment or how to complete it. All he knows is that he's been asleep for a very, very long time. And he's just been awakened to find himself millions of miles from home, with nothing but two corpses for company. His crew-mates dead, his memories fuzzily returning, he realizes that an impossible task now confronts him. Alone on this tiny ship that's been cobbled together by every government and space agency on the planet and hurled into the depths of space, it's up to him to conquer an extinction-level threat to our species. And thanks to an unexpected ally, he just might have a chance. (Emma Stone mentioned for the role of Rocky.)

Growing up outside of Newark, NJ, Robert Peace dreamed of making his single mother proud by escaping his crime-ridden city. He defied the odds and went to Yale on a full scholarship. He was captain of the water polo team and graduated with honors in molecular biochemistry and biophysics. All this promise and potential was dashed when he was gunned down at age 30 by rival drug dealers just blocks from where he grew up. The drama tells the story of his struggle and tragic murder. (December 12 - January 27 | aka "THE SHORT AND TRAGIC LIFE OF ROBERT PEACE")

At the young age of 18, tragedy and a dark secret forced Lara to flee all she knew and loved to start a new life. Now, years later, with a new identity as Amy, she's finally dared to believe she is forgotten - even if she cannot forget. But just when she lets her guard down, the ghosts of her past are quick to punish her, forcing her back on the run. On a plane, struggling to face the devastation of losing everything again and starting over, Amy meets Liam Stone, a darkly entrancing recluse billionaire who is also a brilliant, and famous prodigy architect. A man who knows what he wants and goes after it. And what he wants is Amy. Refusing to take no as an answer, he sweeps her into a passionate affair, pushing her to her erotic limits. He wants to possess her. He makes her want to be possessed. Liam demands everything from her, accepting nothing less. But what if she is too devastated by tragedy to know when he wants more than she should give?

Catherine de Medici was an Italian noblewoman and queen consort of France, married to King Henry II and mother of kings Francis II, Charles IX and Henry III. She had huge influence in France during the 16th Century. Considered an immigrant, common and plain, she was married into the French court as an orphaned teenager expected to bring a fortune in dowry and produce many heirs, only to discover that her husband is in love with an older woman, her dowry is unpaid and she's unable to conceive. Yet, only with her intelligence and determination, she manages to keep her marriage alive and masters the bloodsport that is the monarchy better than anyone else, ruling France for 50 years.

The Surrealtor follows realtor Nick Roman (Rozon) and an elite team of specialists that handle the cases no one else can: haunted and possessed houses that literally scare would-be buyers away. Researching, investigating and “fixing” the things that go bump in the night, the team works to create closure—and closings — even as they struggle with demons of their own. Rozon’s Roman is the owner of The Roman Agency, his eponymous real estate firm specializing in “metaphysically engaged” properties. He has gained a whispered reputation as someone who could sell the haunted houses that nobody else could. Levy will play Susan Ireland, an enormously successful realtor. She is a realist who doesn’t believe in ghosts or hauntings.

Described as a high-concept, character-driven comedy in the vein of Knocked Up, the romcom explores the aftermath of one impulsive, seemingly innocuous decision. When a young man's perennial crush leads him into an unexpected threesome, he thinks it's his ultimate fantasy come true. But when the fantasy ends, all three are left with sobering real-world consequences, forcing them to take responsibility for their actions — even if it means compromising the lives they've always envisioned.

Based on the French series "HPI", Morgan has three children, two exes and an IQ of 160. Her destiny as a cleaning woman is turned upside-down when her extraordinary abilities are spotted by the police who offer her a job as a consultant. When they discover she has a knack for putting things in order because of her HIP ("high intellectual potential") she is brought on as a consultant to work with a by-the-book seasoned detective, and together they form an unusual and unstoppable team.

Focusing on JFK's evolution from an unremarkable young man desperate to prove his mettle to his powerful father, into a WWII hero whose triumph over adversity hardened leadership skills that forged his path to the White House. Kennedy was the commander of a patrol torpedo boat on the prow for Japanese destroyers in August 1943. After a battle with several Japanese ships, PT 109 was inadvertently rammed by the Japanese destroyer Amagin, and that was the beginning of a harrowing week for the future president. Two died in the explosion, and Kennedy gathered the rest of the men — some were burned, others had swallowed fuel-soaked seawater, and two others couldn't swim — and tried to salvage the ship but could not send rescue flares for fear of drawing the enemy. After the vessel went down, Kennedy organized his men for a three-mile swim to an island. His experience as a Harvard swim team member came in handy as he lugged an injured shipmate kept afloat with a life preserver. After finding the island, Kennedy swam to another island looking for rescuers, nearly drowning on the return leg. He made several harrowing trips before he and his shipmates engaged friendly locals and after scrawling an SOS on a coconut, they were finally located by rescuers.

A spinoff series centered around Andrew Lincoln's Rick Grimes and Danai Gurira's Michonne Hawthorne. The latest TWD spinoff will present an epic love story of two characters changed by a changed world. Kept apart by distance. By an unstoppable power. By the ghosts of who they were. Rick and Michonne are thrown into another world, built on a war against the dead... And ultimately, a war against the living. Can they find each other and who they were in a place and situation unlike any they've ever known before? Are they enemies? Lovers? Victims? Victors? Without each other, are they even alive — or will they find that they, too, are the Walking Dead?

A hulking and twisted distortion of Spider-Man, Venom is the result of an alien symbiote merged with a human holding a bitter grudge against Peter Parker. This combination has proven nearly lethal to the wall-crawler numerous times. Despite his hatred of Spider-Man, Venom has a twisted sense of morality, avoiding harming anyone he deems to be innocent and even performing heroic deeds. However, it is never clear how long Venom's darker impulses can be held in check. No matter how hard anyone tries to keep the symbiote down, Venom always manages to come back, like a plague.

It is the spring of 1939 and three generations of the Kurc family are doing their best to live normal lives, even as the shadow of war grows closer. The talk around the family Seder table is of new babies and budding romance, not of the increasing hardships threatening Jews in their hometown of Radom, Poland. But soon the horrors overtaking Europe will become inescapable and the Kurcs will be flung to the far corners of the world, each desperately trying to navigate his or her own path to safety. As one sibling is forced into exile, another attempts to flee the continent, while others struggle to escape certain death, either by working grueling hours on empty stomachs in the factories of the ghetto or by hiding as gentiles in plain sight. Driven by an unwavering will to survive and by the fear that they may never see one another again, the Kurcs must rely on hope, ingenuity, and inner strength to persevere. Elphaba (Erivo), the future Wicked Witch of the West, has gotten a bum rap. Her mother is embarrassed and repulsed by her bright-green baby with shark's teeth and an aversion to water. At college, the coed experiences disapproval and rejection by her roommate, Glinda (Grande), a silly girl interested only in clothes, money, and popularity. Elphaba is a serious and inquisitive student. When she learns that the Wizard of Oz is politically corrupt and causing economic ruin, Elphaba finds a sense of purpose to her life to stop him and to restore harmony and prosperity to the land. A Tin Man, Cowardly Lion, Scarecrow, and an unknown species called a "Dorothy" appear in very small roles. The story presents Elphaba in a sympathetic and empathetic manner-readers will want her to triumph! The conclusion, however, is the same as L. Frank Baum's.

Told from various perspectives and is about two of the greatest showman-magicians in history who push the concept of illusion versus reality to the extreme — until tragedy reframes and opens up an entirely new mystery surrounding their last fateful Las Vegas show. Siegfried Fischbacher and Roy Horn started out as a cruise ship and nightclub magic act before they became Las Vegas mainstays. They famously performed their act featuring magic and white tigers at the Mirage Hotel and Casino from 1990-2003. The act ended in 2003 when Horn was bitten in the throat by one of their tigers during a live performance, causing severe damage, while he also suffered a stroke. The show was shuttered shortly thereafter, with both Fischbacher and Horn largely retiring from public life.

Simon Williams inherited his father's industrial munitions plant after his father died and his older brother, Eric, did not want to take over. Although a capable scientist, Simon nevertheless was not a businessman, and the company started to fail. Eric suggested that Simon embezzle money to invest in Eric's own business, which happened to be illegal racketeering with Maggia ties. The embezzlement and racketeering was discovered, and Simon went to jail, blaming his downfall on Tony Stark (a.k.a. the hero Iron Man and member of the team Avengers.) Simon was released with help from the original Baron Zemo and his Masters of Evil. Simon agreed to undergo an experiment to give him superhuman powers, and Zemo gave him the costumed guise of Wonder Man, warning Simon that he would die without further treatments from Zemo in order to ensure his loyalty. At Zemo's behest, Simon befriended Avengers, pretending to be their ally, and lured them into a trap. However, he repented at the last minute and saved the Avengers from the Masters, seemingly at the cost of his own life. (Bob Odenkirk mentioned for the role of Neal Saroyan.)

Wrecked is a tense thriller, mixing comedy with a slice of slasher, set aboard a mega cruise ship. This luxury liner has everything – glamorous entertainers making guest dreams come true? Check. Vague, unsettling sense of menace? Check. Young, exhausted workers turning up dead or missing? Check. The series follows nineteen-year-old new recruit, Jamie, as he joins the crew in search of his missing sister. She was working aboard the same vessel on a previous tour and never made it home. Jamie is initiated into cruise life and gets a crash course on the teen tribes within the staff: the theatre kids, the drop-outs, the low-paid workers from developing nations. For this overworked and underpaid crew, life below deck is an odyssey of partying and excess... and they remain oblivious to the bloodthirsty murders taking place on board. Jamie is forced to turn detective and uncover the sinister truth that runs as wide and deep as the ocean he's trapped on.

Having just moved from Los Angeles and a troubled past -- even at the age of 16 -- Frank, a talented drummer and a kind soul with a very wild side, is told by his parents to clean up his act in their new city or they won't let him go on tour with his band in the summer. Frank does well in school but can't help himself -- he's drawn to the misfits, the wild ones, the damaged ones, and he finds himself deeply involved with four classmates: River, Kurt, Jan and Tess, as they desperately search for some way to simply be in a world that can't possibly understand them.
